IS SHE SORRY? NO NOT MINNIE!

Young Incorrigible Was Taken to Clermont Reform School Today by Sheriff King.

SHE WENT AWAY SMILING

Little Minnie Says There Are Others—But Has Just Lost Her Horseshoe, That's All.

"Am I sorry? Am I sorry that I am going to leave this burg? Well, I should think I'm not. Why, I would have been out of here long before this, if they had only done as I wanted them to do, and sent me up when I was before the judge the first time," replied Minnie Shelton today at noon at the traction station, to a question as to whether she was sorry that she was being taken away from the city and placed in a reform school.

Sheriff Will King left today at noon over the I. & C. traction line for Indianapolis with the girl, from where he will go to Clermont, about ten miles west of Indianapolis on the Ben Hur traction line. Clermont is a girl's reformatory school, where the young miss, who has been causing the authorities so much trouble, will be placed for an indefinite length of time. The school is supported by the State and is located out in the middle of a large woods several miles distant from any town or city. It was at last decided by the juvenile judge and prosecuting attorney this morning to send the Shelton girl to a reform school.

"But I won't have to stay more than a year if I act right, because they told me if I behaved myself I would get off easy and you can bet that that is what I'm going to do."

"They intended to send you to Indianapolis in the first place, didn't they?"

"Yes, and I'm mighty glad they didn't do that, cause I would have to stay there until I was twenty-one, and that don't sound good to me a tall. And say, I had a mighty close call, too, because if I had been seventeen years old I would have to go there, but I'm only sixteen years and get to go to this place out in the woods instead of Indianapolis, where you're all walled in all the time and this place is out where you can get some fresh air. I am seventeen years old alright, but they say that I am only sixteen and that suits me now."

"You promised to behave, when they had you up on the green carpet before."

"I know I did, but if they had left me in school I would, but they said I couldn't go anymore. I am just unlucky, that's all, but still I would rather go over there any day than have to lay out a fine in this jail like those other two fellows will. Well, here comes my car, I must be goin' so long, kid."

LOOKING FOR RUNAWAY BOY.

The police are looking for a fifteen year old boy who ran away from his home at Hamilton, O., some time ago. The police of the Ohio city informed the local officers that they believed the missing boy was here. A minute description was given and the police spent the greater part of the day looking for the boy. His parents are greatly worried and want him to write or return home.

JUDGE HAS A NEW EASTER BONNET

WE HAVE TALENT HERE FOR SONGS

Good Samaritan Act of Judge Sparks Cost Him a Five Dollar Note.

And it Follows That Pretentious and Elaborate Easter Music Has Been Arranged.

HAD A GRIP IN WRONG PLACE

CHURCHES SPECIAL EFFORT

Gallantry Brought Forth Smiles From Milady Fair and That Sufficed.

Will Attract Many Church-Goers on Next Sunday—Programs of Various Churches.

Apropos of the Easter season the Shelbyville Republican has the following story concerning Judge Sparks:

Judge Sparks is wearing a new hat now, but along with this fact there is connected an incident that only goes to show that the good Samaritan has to undergo many trials—sometimes. The judge went to his home in Rushville yesterday by the way of Greensburg and while waiting for the train in that city he noticed a young lady from Rushville who was lugging a big suit case. Now if there ever was such a thing as a polite man, Judge Sparks is surely one of that kind. He never hesitated to lend a hand where it will do some good. In this particular case he carried the suit case belonging to the young lady on the train and put it down near her. As the train was nearing Rushville he went back to carry the suit case again for the young lady, but lo! what should happen? As he was passing from one ear to another the wind got under his hat and as quick as a wink his "skypee" was traveling at the rate of sixty miles per hour. Thus his new hat today. But this is not all. The young lady noticed what had happened and her face was wreathed in smiles—when the face of the Judge was turned in the other direction. But there was nothing left for the Judge to do but take a cab home, which he speedily did.

There is hardly a small city in all Indiana that has the talent singing in the churches that is found in Rushville and for that reason elaborate and pretentious Easter programs have been arranged for Sunday. Large crowds will attend as usual.

WOMAN IS CALLED TO HER HOME ABOVE

Miss Anna McKee succumbed yesterday evening after illness of five weeks.

FUNERAL SERVICE TOMORROW

Miss Anna McKee died at her home on the corner of Market and Arthur streets yesterday evening at five o'clock of brain complications after an illness of five weeks. She had been a patient sufferer all through her sickness until the very end. She was forty-four years of age last February and has conducted a dressmaking establishment here for years.

Deceased is survived by her mother, Mrs. Sarah McKee, with whom she lived; one sister, Mrs. Dan Miles of Dayton, Ohio; one brother, John McKee of Hamilton, Ohio. A short funeral service will be conducted from the Catholic church tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock by Father Cronin. The remains will be buried in Calvary cemetery.

The customer is given a key, but to insure safety in conducting the deposit vault, one cannot unlock their box until one of the bank officials first inserts a master key in the particular box to be opened.

The vault is equipped with all the modern accessories. The boxes may be had for a small sum annually. The safety vault was originally planned by Edwin Payne, the founder of the banking institution, before his death, and for that end the vault was built with a rear entrance opening into the reception room.

DID WIFE LEARN FROM THE HUBBY

Mrs. John McCarty No. 2 Pulled Off a Few Stunts Before Leaving Knightstown.

WENT SOUTH WITH MONEY

Sold Furniture in Two Places After She Had Advertised Them For Sale at Auction.

The Knightstown Banner has the following closing chapter of the McCarty affair:

"Mrs. Mollie Larmore McCarty, who has been in the limelight in Knightstown for several months or at least since she was married to John McCarty, is still being talked about notwithstanding the fact, according to report, that she has left town.

"Last week, Mrs. McCarty concluded, after her erring husband of a few months had departed from this city, that she would announce a sale of her household effects and accordingly had bills printed for that purpose.

The sale was to have taken place Saturday afternoon, but before the time arrived for the sale she disposed of her effects to Charles C. Smith, the second-hand man. Before Smith had time to haul the goods away from the house Mrs. McCarty had bargained for sale of a part of the stuff to another party. However, this was afterwards adjusted by Mr. Smith deducting the amount from what he agreed to pay.

"Mrs. McCarty is a native of Densig Landing, Tenn., and it was at this place she first met Frank Larmore. The pair were afterwards united in marriage. She departed from this city the first of the week, and it is the supposition that she has returned to her old home in 'Sunny Tennessee' or joined her third husband, John McCarty."

PEOPLE'S BANK HAS A SAFETY DEPOSIT

Vault With One Hundred and Ten Private Boxes Was Installed Today.

BOTH SAFETY AND PRIVACY

The People's National bank has installed a safety deposit vault which gives promise of becoming popular and filling a long needed want. In the vault are one hundred and ten private boxes where papers, valuable documents, silverware, jewelry and other valuables may be kept with absolute security from burglars, fire and curious eyes.

The customer is given a key, but to insure safety in conducting the deposit vault, one cannot unlock their box until one of the bank officials first inserts a master key in the particular box to be opened.

The vault is equipped with all the modern accessories. The boxes may be had for a small sum annually. The safety vault was originally planned by Edwin Payne, the founder of the banking institution, before his death, and for that end the vault was built with a rear entrance opening into the reception room.

They do not cause griping or any disagreeable effect or inconvenience, and may be taken at any time, day or night.

We particularly recommend Rexall Orderlies for children, delicate or aged persons because they do not contain anything that could possibly injure the most delicate organism. They are just as easy to take as candy, and unlike other preparations for a like purpose they do not create a habit, but instead they overcome the cause of habits acquired through the use of ordinary laxatives, cathartics and harsh purgatives, and permanently remove the cause of constipation or irregular bowel action.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies at our risk. We know that there is nothing that will do you so much good, and we will refund your money without argument if they do as we say they will. They are prepared in tablet form in two sizes of packages; 36 tablets, 25 cents, and 12 tablets, 10 cents. Lytle's Drug Store, Third and Main streets.

Among the popular neckwear for spring are the high boned stock, the Dutch neck, the Piccadilly, the muffed stock and the turnover linen collars, in both Etons and Dutch styles.

A decidedly new feature among gloves is one of soft glace kid with metal embroidery down the back.

Lace and patterned net has to a great extent displaced the plain net for jockeys and sleeves.

The mode of clasps and buckles as a trimming for the diretoire gown holds good.

The new spring suit for dress wear must have a touch of braid trimming.

The diretoire style will hold its own through the spring season.

Smart Tips For Men

In waistcoats, the five button effects are most fashionable. The buttons are plainer than formerly, with a decrease of contrasting effects.

Some of the shops are showing canary colored French flannel shirts; also others in dove gray and shades of brown and heliotrope.

Crocheted and knitted ties are again coming into popularity. The grades are shown in cross stripes and mixed combinations.

Both tan and patent leather shoes are being shown, with gray felt tops. Black cloth tops prevail for evening wear.

A novelty in collars, designed for wear with dinner coats, is a pique with the stripes crossing the collar.

Here's Where the Fun Comes In

"Now take care little fellow—don't cry—papa's here and nobody's going to harm you."

The father was speaking to a ten-year-old cherub, who was having his hair cut for the first time in a barber shop. Always had mother to do the work before with a crook over his head for a hair line. But the little husky did not want a regular, forever hair cut. He was stuck on the kind mother makes.

Finally the father solved the problem. He crawled into the chair and held the boy on his lap. And this happened in Rushville today.

INSANITY PLEA WILL BE TESTED

Old Loophole of Escape is Closed to Criminals—Dementia Americana Given a Set-Back.

BRAIN STORMS ARE BARRED

Acts of Legislature is Likely to Change Entire Complexion of Criminal Code and Practice.

Criminal lawyers are aghast over the discovery that the recent Legislature in this State enacted a law to the effect that a man accused of crime and placed on trial will not be permitted to dodge justice by the old plea of insanity and through that loophole escape scot-free.

The act provides that if a plea of insanity is entered the jury then and there will try him on that charge and if found guilty he will be confined in an institution for the criminal insane. If found not guilty he will be tried for the crime with which he is charged.

That will change the entire complexion of criminal procedure here and the legal strategists will have to resort to some other method than that of insanity to save their clients from being hanged or going to the penitentiary for their misdeeds.

It used to be that a man charged with a serious crime could plead insanity and in many cases it worked to perfection, the accused escaping at the hands of a jury. Under the new rule the accused will have to show the jury.

The act knocks paranoia off brain storm, in the head and will doubtless materially aid the blindfolded goddess of justice to occasionally get that which is due her.

ELEPHANT RAN AMUCK

Shocking Scene in Winter Headquarters of a Circus of Des Moines.

Des Moines, Ia., April 9.—"Tom," an elephant in the winter quarters of the "Yankee" Robinson circus here, last night suddenly ran amuck, and seizing his keeper, Charles Bellow, hurled him high into the air and then trampled him to death.

The infuriated beast then ran through the animal park, uprooted small trees, destroyed three circus wagons and demolished a bridge across a lagoon. Forty bullets were fired into the beast before it was subdued. Bellow was forty-four years old.

WOMEN GET BUSY IN HALLS OF CONGRESS

Monster Petition on Behalf of Chicagoans Presented Today.

Washington, April 9.—Armed with the text of a petition of 250,000 persons in Chicago four women, representing the Women's clubs of Chicago, called on Speaker Cannon to protest against the proposed increase in the duty on woman's wearing apparel. They were Mrs. N. B. Lewis, president of the League of Cook County Women's clubs; Mrs. Freeman Brown, president of the Women's club of Englewood; Mrs. E. M. Henderson, chairman of the Civic Department of the Women's Federation, and Miss Helen Norris, secretary.

The delegation was introduced to the speaker by Representative Foss who today presented to the house their petition. The speaker chatted with the women for several minutes. He bespoke for the petition consideration, saying that it was the privilege of any member to present to the house any respectful petition.

HER DIGNITY SUFFERED

But Court Held That Father Was Within His Rights.

Detroit, April 9.—In the police court here Justice Jeffries upheld the right of a father to administer the old-fashioned spanking to his seventeen-year-old daughter, even if her dignity suffered. Margaret Granzin, aged seventeen, had her father arrested for disturbing the peace after a spanking. Granzin told the judge that the punishment was part of an effort to keep his daughter away from cheap theaters, and the justice decided that spanking young ladies of seventeen was permissible in moderation.

Wilson Stable—Greatest Ever Collected in Indiana—Leave in Palatial Car.

GREAT SEASON IS EXPECTED

Besides Hedgewood Boy and Lady Maud C., Wilsons Have Some Green Phenoms up Sleeve.

Cleopatra was not surrounded with more luxurious appointment when she sailed down the Nile with Mark Anthony, than the Wilson stable of fast horses was treated to when they left here last evening in a palatial Pullman horse car. The car was built for sixteen horses and fifteen were loaded in the padded stalls after being carefully blanketed and wrapped with leg cloths.

In addition to Lady Maud C. the world pacing crackrackerjack there were several other animals that promise to win many laurels on the turf. Lydiate, with a record of 2:02 over a half mile track is expected to make them sit up and take notice on the grand circuit.

Then there was the Dora Abercrombie three-year-old by Patchen Boy, Legal Patch, who as a two-year-old, in the presence of fifty or more people, went a quarter in 31 $\frac{1}{4}$ or at a 2:05 gait—a phenomenal performance for a two-year-old. The pacer, Leone, 2:07 $\frac{1}{4}$, will no doubt finish in the money as often as any of them, with the clever reinsman, Dick Wilson, at the helm.

Of all the horses in the stable—the greatest stable ever collected together by an Indiana horseman—more hope is pinned in a green trotter, that comes of royal and purple blood. It is a two-year-old out of a dam by McKinney, 2:02 $\frac{1}{2}$, and sired by Creosus, 2:02 $\frac{1}{2}$. As a two-year-old the youngster has stepped a mile over a half-mile track in 2:20 $\frac{1}{4}$. She is staked in all the futurities, the stakes amounting to over \$100,000.

Hedgewood Boy, 2:02 $\frac{1}{4}$, will be shipped later, being kept here for the next few weeks.

FOR COURT TO DECIDE

Squabble Over State House Custodian Enters Final Phase.

Indianapolis, April 9.—Charles Wheeler, of Noblesville, Republican, and Thos. Colbert, of Indianapolis, Democrat, have been appointed state house custodian. Wheeler was named by Secretary of State Sims and Auditor Billheimer under a law of 1895 which the governor refuses to recognize. Colbert was commissioned in a regular manner and will make formal application for the office April 15, when the term of O. A. Baker expires. Wheeler will be handed the keys by Baker, who is a Republican. Colbert will then bring suit to test the validity of the act under which Wheeler was appointed. The governor, Sims and Billheimer have agreed to submit the facts to the courts so that a decision can be reached by the supreme court within the next thirty days. The present force of deputies will not be disturbed while the suit is pending, but neither custodian will be permitted to draw salary until the supreme court rules. The controversy over the state house patronage has been going on for three or four months, both parties claiming it. The governor always has made the appointments and Marshall insists that the authority to do so is centered in his office.

When up to the hour of his departure for New York last night, Governor Marshall had not received from Attorney General Bingham the name of the man who furnished him a card showing that gambling is going on again at one of the French Lick hotels. Unless the attorney-general "comes across" with the party who is furnishing him with information, the governor will pay no attention to the charges. The governor's attitude in the matter has been misrepresented in some of the stories sent out regarding the French Lick gambling incident. Mark Thistlethwaite, the governor's private secretary, said that it is not true that the governor said to Bingham or any one else that he wouldn't do anything to put a stop to gambling at French Lick. The purpose of circulating a story of that kind, it is believed, is to create the impression that the governor wouldn't do anything to hurt the business of National Committee Taggart. It was said that he has not considered Taggart in the matter and that he would proceed against him as quickly as anyone if it was shown that he was breaking the law.

In Loving Remembrance.

Harry Taylor Wainscott, son of Solomon and Nancy Wainscott, was born March 19th, 1882 at Osgood, Ind., and departed this life at his home in Rushville, March 27th, 1909. Aged 27 years and 8 days. He came to Rushville, Ind., October 25th, 1901 and made his home at Mr. Henry Small, at whose home he died.

He was married to Miss Bertha Small, April 25th, 1903. To this union was born one child who died in infancy. For the past five years he had been employed at Warfield & Wilson's table factory, but shortly before his last sickness, he went to work at the Park Furniture Co. He had been in poor health for several months, but had kept at his work until about three months before his death. His death was due to consumption. He united with the St. Paul's M. E. church during his last sickness. He leaves a widow, a father, two brothers and a host of friends to mourn his loss. Not only will he be missed from his home, but will be missed where he worked, for he was loved by all who knew him.

His funeral was held at the St. Paul's M. E. church March 29th, at 2 o'clock, conducted by Dr. V. W. Tevis, and under the auspices of the Red Men lodge, of which he was a member. Burial in East Hill cemetery.

A precious one from us has gone,

A voice we loved is stilled;

A place is vacant in our home,

Which never can be filled.

God in his wisdom has recalled

The boon His love had given,

And though the body slumbers here,

The soul is safe in heaven.

Polly of the Circus

BY MARGARET MAYO

COPYRIGHT, 1908, BY DODD, MEAD AND COMPANY

"Yes, yes, and you won't blame him any more, will you?" she hurried on anxiously. "You'll let him stay, no matter what he does, if I promise to go away and never, never come back again?"

"I ain't holdin' no grudge agin' him," Strong grumbled. "He talks pretty rough sometimes, but he's been a good enough minister. I ain't forgettin' that."

"Oh, thank you, Mr. Strong, thank you. I'll get my things. It won't take a minute!" She was running up the steps when a sudden thought stopped her. She returned quickly to Strong. "We'd better not let him know just yet. You can tell him afterward. Tell him that I ran away. Tell him that!"

She was interrupted by Douglas, who came from the house. "Hello, Strong! Back again?" he asked, in some surprise. Polly remained with her eyes fixed upon the deacon, searching for some way of escape. The pastor approached. She burst into nervous laughter. "What's the joke?" Douglas asked.

"It's only a little surprise that the deacon and I are planning." She tried to control the catch in her voice. "You'll know about it soon, won't he, deacon? Good afternoon, Mr. Strong!" She flew into the house, laughing hysterically.

Douglas followed her to the steps with a puzzled frown. It was unlike Polly to give way to her moods before others. "Have you gentlemen changed your minds about the little girl staying on?" he asked uneasily.

"It's all right now," said Strong, seating himself with a complacent air.

"All right? How so?" questioned Douglas, more and more puzzled by the deacon's evident satisfaction.

"Because," said Strong, rising and facing the pastor—"because your circus ridin' gal is goin' to leave you of her own accord."

"Have you been talking to that girl?" asked Douglas sternly.

"I have," said Strong, holding his ground.

"See here, deacon, if you've been browbeating that child I may forget that I'm a minister." The knuckles on Douglas' large fists grew whiter.

"She's goin'. I tell you, and it ain't because of what I said either. She's goin' back to the circus."

"I don't believe you."

"You would 'a' believed me if you'd seen the fellow that was just a-callin' on her and her a-huggin' and a-kissin' of him and a-promisin' that she'd be a-waitin' for him here when he come back."

"You lie!" cried Douglas, taking a step toward the retreating deacon.

"There's the fellow now!" cried Strong as he pointed to the gate. "Suppose you ask him afore you call me a liar."

Douglas turned quickly and saw Jim approaching. His face lighted up with relief at the sight of the big, lumbering fellow.

"How are you, Mr. Douglas?" said Jim awkwardly.

"You've seen Polly?" asked Douglas, shaking Jim cordially by the hand.

"Yes, I've seen her."

"The deacon here has an idea that

"You'll save a heap of trouble for the person by doin' it quick."

Polly is going back to the circus with you."

He nodded toward Strong, almost laughing at the surprise in store for him.

"She's goin'. I tell you, and it ain't

"OH, SEE HOW SERIOUS HE LOOKS!" SHE TEASED.

"Back to the circus?" asked Jim. "Did she say anything to you about it?" He was worried by the bewilderment in Jim's manner.

Before Jim could reply Polly, who had reached the steps in time to catch the last few words, slipped quickly between them. She wore her coat and hat and carried a small brown satchel.

People Will Talk You Know

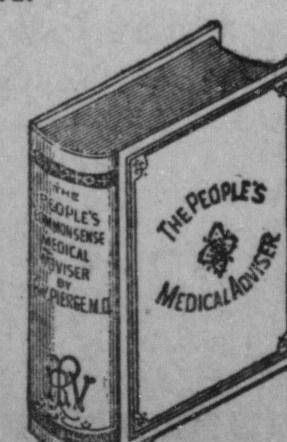

And that's the reason why Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines are advertised so little now-a-days. They have made hundreds of thousands of cures in the past 40 years, and some of the grateful people whom they have restored to health are to be found almost everywhere. There's scarcely a hamlet that don't contain some. Look them up. Interview them. They are living, walking, active advertisements

For Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines.

You can believe your neighbors. Therefore ask them. What cured them will very likely cure you, if similarly afflicted—only give them a good, fair trial.

It's a good, sound, common sense policy to use medicines only of KNOWN COMPOSITION, and which contain neither alcohol nor habit-forming drugs. The most intelligent people, and many of the most successful, conscientious physicians, follow this judicious course of action. The leading medical authorities, of all schools of medicine, endorse the ingredients composing Dr. Pierce's medicines. These are plainly printed on wrappers and attested under oath. There's no secrecy; an open publicity, square-deal policy is followed by the makers.

We have a profound desire to avoid all offense to the most delicate sensitiveness of modest women, for whom we entertain the most sincere respect and admiration. We shall not, therefore, particularize here concerning the symptoms and peculiar ailments incident to the sex for which Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has for more than 40 years proven such a boon. We cannot, however, do a better service to the afflicted of the gentler sex than to refer them to Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a great family doctor book of 1000 pages, bound in cloth and given away gratis, or sent, post-paid, on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps—to cover cost of mailing only, or 21 cents for paper covered book. All the delicate ailments and matters about which every woman, whether young or old, single or married, should know, but which their sense of delicacy makes them hesitate to ask even the family physician about, are made plain in this great book. "Of course I did, didn't I, Jim?" she said, turning her back upon the pastor and motioning to Jim not to answer. Douglas gazed at her in astonishment.

"What do you mean?" he asked in a hoarse, strained voice. He glanced at the coat and hat. "Where are you going?"

Polly avoided his eyes and continued nervously to Jim:

"What made you come back? Why didn't you wait for me down the street? Now you've spoiled everything." She pretended to be very vexed with him. The big fellow looked puzzled. He tried to protest, but she put a warning finger to her lips and pressed the little brown satchel into his hand. "It's no use," she went on hurriedly. "We might as well tell them everything now." She turned to Douglas and pretended to laugh. "You have found us out."

The deacons were slightly uneasy. The frown on Douglas' forehead was deepening.

"Oh, see how serious he looks!" she teased, with a toss of her head toward the grim visaged pastor.

"Is this some trick?" he demanded sternly.

"Don't be angry," she pleaded. "Wish me luck."

She held out one small hand. He did not take it. She wavered; then she felt the eyes of the deacons upon her. Courage returned, and she spoke in a firm, clear voice. "I am going to run away."

Douglas stepped before her and studied her keenly.

"Run away?" he exclaimed incredulously.

"Yes—to the circus with Jim."

"You couldn't do such a thing," he answered excitedly. "Why, only a moment ago you told me you would never leave me."

"Oh, but that was a moment ago," she cried in a strained high voice. "That was before Jim came. You see, I didn't know how I felt until I saw Jim and heard all about my old friends—how Barker is keeping my place for me and how they all want to see me. And I want to see them

TAFT ESCAPES BAD TUMBLE.

Weight of the President Too Heavy
For His Executive Chair.

Under the weight of President Taft's 240 pounds, more or less, plus cares of state which have been pressing upon him more heavily than usual since March 4, the presidential chair, the big oaken swivel chair behind his mahogany topped desk in the executive office at Washington, gave way the other day, and the president extricated himself from the wreckage just in time to save himself from a bad tumble.

He was not hurt nor gravely shocked, for, if the truth be told, Mr. Taft is not unaccustomed to such accidents. Chairs in general are not built in contemplation of carrying so much weight, and he has at sundry times had sad experiences with them.

Honest Ball Player.

Here's a new one. The Secretary of the New Castle (Pa.) baseball team claims he has secured a contract from one of the candidates for a place on the team which is unique, in that the player agrees that if he does not hit at a .250 clip for the season he will not ask for any pay for the final month of the season. The secretary will not give out the player's name, as he claims that if it were known every pitcher in the league would work overtime trying to beat the player out of that month's salary.

Pleasing Augury.

An era of good feeling is promised for the Taft Administration. The newspapers of all parties North and South are wishing the new President all kinds of good fortune and even predicting success. It is a pleasing augury.—Adrian (Mich.) Times.

Lesson II.—Second Quarter, For April 11, 1909.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES

Text of the Lesson, Acts xii, 1-19
Memory Verse, 7—Golden Text, Ps xxxiv, 7—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

(Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.)

We have yet another lesson on Peter before we take up the story of Saul of Tarsus or the option of an Easter lesson from I Cor. xv, but as we desire to miss nothing from the Acts and as the regular lesson is a manifestation of the power of the risen Christ we take the regular order. We have seen thus far in this book that all the teaching has been concerning a crucified and risen Christ and that the thousands saved—the lame man, and the palsied man healed, and the dead raised—were all in the name and by the powers of the risen and glorified Redeemer. From the time of the entrance of sin into the world up to the present time and on to the end of this age the opposition of the devil, the god of this world, is very manifest. Peter felt it keenly and therefore wrote, "Your adversary, the devil, as a roaring lion walketh about, seeking whom he may devour, whom resist steadfast in the faith" (I Pet. v, 8, 9).

In this lesson the devil's instrument is one of the Herods, a decidedly bad lot, on whose history it would not be wise to waste time. He is permitted to vex the church, to kill James, the brother of John, and to imprison Peter. But in the end of the chapter he is taken from the earth, and there is nothing for him but the blackness of darkness forever. James, whom he killed, being the Lord's own, found himself instantly in glory, absent from the body, present with the Lord. Peter was kept in prison, guarded always by four soldiers, and it was Herod's intention to have him brought out and slain after Easter. This would have been a great gain for Peter, but it was not in the Lord's plan as we shall see. Although Peter must have had poor fare and hard lodgings, we see him sleeping, probably as peacefully as in the trance of our last lesson, ready to be slain if that was the Lord's way for him.

Somewhere in the city, in the house of Mary, the sister of Barnabas, the mother of John Mark, many were gathered together, making instant and earnest prayer to God for him (verses 5, margin, and 12), and their prayers were heard and about to be answered, though they hardly expected it, for had they not been persistently asking day and night, and was not this the last night of hope, and how could he be delivered? Well might our Lord say to us most of the time, "O ye of little faith!" Let us see God answering prayer, and may our faith be strengthened. One of those angels who excel in strength is sent to Peter as he sleeps in the prison, securely guarded by the two soldiers, to whom he is chained, and by the guard before the door. But the stone walls and the iron gates or doors are nothing to these messengers from the throne of God, and without disturbing one of the guards Peter's chains fall off, and he is told to arise, gird himself, bind on his sandals, cast his garments about him and follow his friend. Peter did as he was told, not thinking it a reality, but that he was enjoying a vision. No one spoke to them as they passed the wards, and the iron gate of its own accord opened to them (doubtless more angelic ministry), and, passing through one street, the angel left him, and Peter found himself alone and soon realized that it was no vision, but that an angel had in reality delivered him from Herod and from all the expectation of the Jews. The expectation of the people perishes, the counsel of the ungodly comes to naught, but the purpose of the Lord stands.

A light shone in the prison, the glory of the Lord shone upon the shepherds, a light from heaven shone upon Saul, for all is light and glory in heaven, and messengers from there carry light and glory with them. When we steadfastly behold the face of Him who is the brightness of the Father's glory we, too, will unconsciously carry some of the reflection of that light, a sweet savor of Christ. As to the guards being undisturbed, there must have been a deep sleep from the Lord upon them, as in I Sam. xxvi, 12; Gen. ii, 21. All the wisdom and power of man are nothing to Him of whom it is written, "By the word of the Lord were the heavens made, and all the host of them by the breath of His mouth" (Ps. xxxiii, 6).

When Peter found that he was really free he went at once to the house of Mary and began to knock and continued knocking till he gained admission. Had they been expecting the answer they would have had some one on the lookout for Peter to open quickly when he came. But they said that Rhoda was mad because she said he was at the gate, and when she insisted that it was so they said it was his angel. And all this time Peter was knocking. The answer to their prayers could scarcely get to them when he came. What do you think of them? Having commissioned them to tell James and the brethren, he departed and abode at Caesarea, but whether with the centurion of last lesson or with Philip we can only conjecture.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning April 11, 1909.
By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Risen with Christ.—Col. III, 1-4.

In the preceding chapter of this book the apostle points out the facts that the Christian died with Christ (verse 20), was buried with Him (verse 11) and also rose with Him (verse 11). "Buried with Him in baptism, wherein also ye are risen with Him through the faith of the operation of God, which hath raised Him from the dead." In the beginning of the fourth chapter he speaks of the practical side of our relation to Christ, especially as having been raised from the dead with Him. "If risen with Christ, what then?" he seems to ask, and then answers his own question.

1. If risen with Christ, our aims in life should be more exalted. "If risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth at the right hand of God; set your affection on things above, not on things on the earth." The aim of the one who has been associated with Christ in all His works of redemption—in other words, who has been redeemed himself—is to be changed from earthly achievements and joys to those of heaven. The aim of the unregenerate, unredeemed man is worldly. His desire is only toward the things of this life—its wealth, its pleasures and its ambitions. With the redeemed this is not the case. He seeks to lay up treasures in heaven, to be rich toward God rather than to possess the riches of this world, and if we do this our affection will be on the things in heaven rather than the things of earth, for where a man's treasures are there is his heart also. If our wealth is in railroad stocks our thoughts will be constantly upon them. If our aims in life be to reach some political goal our hearts will be constantly upon that, and if seeking heavenly things our hearts' affection will be centered there, "where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God." This is indeed a "consummation devoutly to be wished," for many waste their lives on the trifling toys of earth and see not and seek not the eternal joys and treasures of heaven.

2. If risen with Christ the secret springs of all our life are heavenly. "Your life is hid with Christ in God." Christ is in God, we are in Christ, and therefore our lives are hidden in God, the source of all their power and efficiency. What a stupendous fact! A stream cannot rise above its source. But if the source of the secret springs in a man's heart and life be in God how boundless the aims and opportunities of his life! He can sing with sincerity:

Rise, my soul, and stretch thy wings,
Thy better portion trace;
From transitory things
Toward heaven, thy native place.
Sun and moon and stars decay,
Time shall soon this earth remove.
Rise, my soul, and hast away
To seats prepared above.

3. If risen with Christ we shall partake of His glory at His second coming. "When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with Him in glory."

Unique Practices.

The first Endeavorers in Ceylon cut the Christian Endeavor monogram in native characters on the stems of certain coconut trees, whose fruit they thus dedicated to the Lord. And those that had no fruit trees dedicated each a hen, with her eggs and chickens. In another society in India, in famine times, each member set aside a handful of grain from her daily allowance that it might be sold to support a child in Africa.

Small but Zealous Society.

There is in the "way back" country on the west coast of Australia a Christian Endeavor society of only two members, both of them young men. They are working and praying to establish Christian Endeavor in their district, and they are Endeavorers with the right stamp.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness—nothing more. Possibly not one real heart is ever born that is not diseased in itself. Actually diseased, it is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength, so that the heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and failing hearts. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, panting, suffering heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and failing nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong hearts, strengthen them as needed, with

Dr. Shoop's Restorative
